HOW IT CAME TO BE

- It happened, so they tell me, on a hot, muggy summer morning. So sweltering, flies as big as your eyeballs were faintin' in the sun. Gum trees were meltin' on the spot. That's how it was, mates*. Truly.
- It was on that very day that some under - the - brush* types (pirates you might say) landed on the shores of Australia. Their ship carried booty of all kinds, captured upon the seven seas and the four corners of the new world. Rare herbs, spices and candied flavours. Beauts* like cinnamon, mint, and caramel.
- No sooner did their feet touch the sands of our fair country, than they heard the most amazin' sound. Pop. Pop. POPITTY. POP. POP. Loud enough to bowl a bloke over*.
- There on the beach were hundreds, no thousands, no millions of ears of corn popping like bloody crazy in the mid-day sun. Nobody knew how they got there. Nobody ever dared ask.
- And then, chums, as if by magic, a big wind comes along, breaks open the crates on the ship, and all those rare flavours come lapping onto the shore. And wonderfully, they covered those popcorn kernels like a roo up a gum tree*.
- Pretty soon those mean and nasty pirates were eating freshly popped popcorn covered in delicious flavours. Cinnamon. Mint. Caramel. They smiled. They sang. They danced. Some even yelled "hooly-dooly"* to the sky.
- And that's how it happened, jackaroos*. Sez who? Sez* me. That's exactly how Aussie Crunch was born.
